

TURKEYS AT LUMBERJACK

Hilde

Hello, I'm a happy organic turkey at Lumberjack.

I have twice as much space as my colleagues in the conventional agriculture.

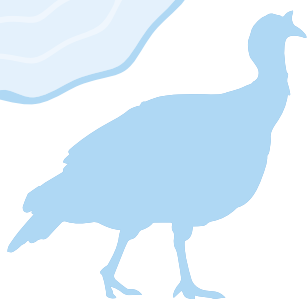

We are therefore quite relaxed and can develop our natural behavior.

Plus, if we have a little more space, we don't get sick that easily.

Susi

Here in organic farming we only get organic feed and it tastes so good.

Peter

Hello, as an organic turkey I'm happy that I am not treated with antibiotics.

Should I however get sick, I may get an antibiotic once in my turkey life. After the treatment, it takes us twice as long as in conventional agriculture until we animals are slaughtered.

This ensures that no residues remain in the meat.

